

Ky Co

Ky Co peninsula, a masterpiece of Mother Nature in the central of Vietnam, is just about 25 kilometers away and a 20-minute boat ride from Quy Nhon city. This island has one side facing the sea and three other sides surrounded by hills and mountains.

Ky Co beach is fondly dubbed the "Maldives of Vietnam." Standing on the pristine beach, visitors could feel the taste of the sea blending with the wind, with the sound of the waves crashing by the land. Visitors not only could lie on a long sandy beach, enjoy the wonderful natural scenery, the peaceful and fresh space of the island but also could immerse themselves in the clear blue sea water, to swim and have fun with waves of the sea.
